ACTIVITY INCREASING AT CAMP SHELBY FOR TRAINING

Activities are increasing daily at Camp Shelby, the home of the Mississippi National Guard, as the guard's planning groups lay out the ground work for the opening of the Guard's annual field training activities that begin on June 9th.

The 78,000 acre south Mississippi post is being readied to receive all troops of the Mississippi and some of the Alabama National Guard between June 9th and July 21st.

Camp Shelby, the largest tent city in the world in the 40's, also served as a training site during World War II. The post is presently being developed into a full division size training site. This goal is rapidly coming into view with permanent housing for 6800 troops being available this year. The building program continues with a $400,000 contract being advertised in June.

Training facilities are being expanded to meet the needs of additional troops. Shelby Artillery ranges are regarded as superior to most in the 3rd Army Area. New live-fire combat courses add realism to infantry training and this year marks the opening of a new site on the Leaf River to be utilized for amphibious training and temporary bridge construction.

The 31st Infantry (Dixie) Division will lead the way to Shelby this year. They begin training on the 9th and as they return home other units will arrive at two week intervals until all Mississippi units have completed their training.

LOW BIDDER ON CLEARING NASA SITE

MOBILE, Ala. - Luther S. Stockstill of Baton Rouge filed a low bid of $76,500 for clearing 800 acres at the construction site of the new Mississippi Test Facility.

Various stages of the Saturn V moon rocket will be tested at the Mississippi facility which is being constructed in Hancock County at an estimated cost of $500 million.

NASA News..

Army Engineers have called for bids for four more construction jobs at the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center's new Mississippi Test Facility, which is being constructed in Hancock County, Mississippi, for ground testing rocket stages and engines for the manned lunar landing program. The four contracts are estimated to total more than $3,000,000.

Bids will be opened on May 29 for clearing 800 acres at the construction site for the test complex where various stages of the Saturn V moon rocket will be ground fired.

Bids will be opened on June 3 for constructing an emergency service building in the future support area complex. The building will be a one-story concrete and steel structure with a floor area of about 15,000 square feet.

Bids will be opened on June 6 for excavation for the lock which will lift rocket and fuel barges the 20 feet from the level of East Pearl River to the level of the canal system serving the Mississippi Test Facility. The job will include clearing 158 acres, grubbing 54 acres, excavating about 875,000 cubic yards of material, and installing a dewatering system.

Bids will be opened on June 11 for constructing a general purpose warehouse, a site maintenance building, a well pump house, a 300,000-gallon elevated water storage tank, a fenced sewage lagoon, utility lines, and pavement, all in the support area. The warehouse, which will be of concrete and steel construction with a floor area of about 52,000 square feet, will contain controlled environmental areas and equipment for packaging, crating and preserving stored items.

Bids will be opened on June 11 for site maintenance building, which will also contain a steel construction and will contain a floor area of about 8,400 square feet, will contain a machine shop, a sheet metal shop, plumbing shop, a refrigeration shop, an electric shop, a welding shop, a site maintenance shop, and a carpentry shop.

Bids will be opened on the specified dates at the Corps of Engineers district office, 2301 Airport Blvd., Mobile, Alabama. Bidding for all four contracts will be restricted to small business concerns in the interest of assuring such firms a fair share of Government procurement.

Army Engineers have invited competitive bids for dredging a section of East Pearl River in the vicinity of the NASA Mississippi Test Facility, the huge proving ground being built for use by the Marshall Space Flight Center in conducting acceptance tests of lunar rocket stages and engines.

Specifications call for dredging a mile-long section in East Pearl River south of the former site of Gainesville, Mississippi, to provide a navigation channel 13 feet deep and 150 feet wide. An additional foot of depth will be allowed to take care of inaccuracies in the dredging process. The job will include cutting off a bend in the river to straighten the channel.

Bids will be opened on June 11 at the Corps of Engineers district office in Mobile, Alabama.

Barge transportation will be the principal means of moving huge rocket components from assembly plants to the Test Facility for captive firing and then to Cape Canaveral for launching.

Army Engineers recently awarded a contract for dredging a harbor in the southwest corner of the test area an access channel from East Pearl River, and had another contract for constructing a dock. Bids are scheduled to be opened on June 6 for excavating for a lock to lift barges from the level of the river to the level of the test area. Future contracts are contemplated for dredging at Pearl River downstream to its junction with the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway at the Rigolais building the lock, and excavating a system of canals to serve the various stands in the test area.

ROMANOFF AND JULIET SCHEDULED FOR END OF JUNE

The second production of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre 1963 season will be the play Romanoff and Juliet by the well known writer, actor and producer, Peter Ustinoff. The date is set tentatively for the end of June.

Mrs. Ernest C. Samuel, who will direct Romanoff and Juliet, said, when she was questioned as to her reasons for selecting this play, "I chose it from a widely assorted variety of comedies and dramas because I think it will be a new and delightful experience for our audiences and it will also prove that our Little Theatre can handle very lavish and intricate stage settings as well as subtle and competent acting."

The story is, briefly, the immortal one of Romeo and Juliet, a story of young love and moonlight and beauty. It is also filled with biting satire and warm humor. With the story, there is never a dull moment when the son of the Russian ambassador and the daughter of the American ambassador fall in love in the most delightful, the zaniest, the tiniest principality in all Europe.

This is a new Romeo and Juliet; no vows, no tears, no violence, but smiles, chuckles and laughs, leading up to an incredible ending that you will have to see to believe.

KO Polio Falls Short

Dr. J. B. Levens, K. O. Pollo Day chairman, said this week approximately 9000 residents of Hancock County took Type 2 Oral Sabin Vaccine Sunday. This amount, he added, fell short between 1,800 and 2,000 of those who took Type I April 21.

Make-up clinics for those who failed to take the vaccine Sunday will be set up in the emergency room of Hancock General Hospital and at the clinic at Kiln on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

At some of the clinics, Dr. Levens reported, cards were erroneously marked Type III. This, he said, is to be disregarded as Type II was given and the cards so marked will be corrected when Type III is given September 22.

ALVIN GENIN ENTERS RACE FOR OFFICE SUPERVISOR, BEAT 5

The Hancock County Eagle is hereby authorized to announce the candidacy of Alvin Genin for the office of Supervisor for Beat Five of Hancock County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary election in August. Mr. Genin's statement to the voters of Beat Five follows:

I hereby make this my formal announcement as a candidate for Board of Supervisor of Hancock County District 5.

I am 50 years old and was born in Bay St. Louis. I received my high school education at St. Stanislaus College in Bay St. Louis, having graduated in 1929. I am married to the former Bertha Ploue, and we are the proud parents of four sons.

In asking the people to elect me as their Supervisor, I do so strictly on my own record. A record with which I am sure the majority of you good people are familiar. I served as Chief of Police from 1944 through 1948, and at the expiration of this term, we were commended by the various State Departments for our accurate and efficient manner in which the records were kept. After leaving the Sheriff's Office, I was employed by the late Emilie Due, as manager of the Cue Oil Co., the position I now hold.

I make no elaborate promises, for promises as you know are mere words unless backed by action, and I am a firm believer in the old adage, Actions speak louder than words.

However, let me say to you that if I am elected, I will be 100 percent dedicated to the service of the people, for I believe the office of Supervisor, belongs to the people, not the individual, and that the doors to this office be opened to the people. Only in this way can we have democracy. I will devote my efforts to increase the income of our people for a greater and more prosperous Hancock County. In asking you the people, to elect me your Supervisor, I am well aware of the importance for dedicated leadership in a rapidly growing Hancock County, and even though I may not be able to call upon each of you personally, I am asking you now for your support and influence which will be deeply appreciated.

Sincerely,
ALVIN GENIN

STENNIS URGES CRASH PROGRAM TO SPEED SETTLEMENTS

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Senator John Stennis has urged the U. S. Corps of Engineers to begin a crash program to speed up land settlements for the missile testing site in South Mississippi.

Stennis, met with officials of the Corps of Engineers in Washington and from the Mobile District office to urge an accelerated program for paying the landowners for their land for the test facility in Hancock and Pearl River Counties.

Conferring with Stennis were Frederick M. Figert and Woodrow Berge, both of the Washington engineer office, and William E. Mussell of the Mobile office.

Stennis pointed out that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) had announced plans for the construction of the site as early as October 1961.

"Since that time, more than 18 months have passed and the Corps of Engineers has acquired only about 4,500 acres of the proposed 128,000 acres which will be needed for the buffer zone surrounding the actual test site," Stennis said.

In some cases, Stennis explained, easements will be obtained from landowners in the buffer zone, but in some instances the land will be purchased outright. But in any case, landowners will be required to move. The 13,000 acres in the interior of the site have been purchased outright by the federal government.

Stennis urged the Engineers to "use more property appraisers and negotiators to speed up the whole program."

He pointed out that "in those cases where it is obvious that a settlement cannot be reached between the federal government and the landowner, then court proceedings will be required to determine the actual fair market value of the property. The government should not delay the court proceeding where there is no possibility of agreement. Such a delay takes advantage of the landowner. He cannot make his plans or acquire other property until he knows what the government will pay for the property it is taking from him."

More importantly, but less understood by the landowner, Stennis said, is the requirement by which the federal government pays into the court the appraised market value of the land at the time the petition is filed.

"Landowners and homeowners, if their land titles are clear, can then petition the court to get a substantial part of that money in order to proceed with their plans for acquiring new or different homes," Stennis explained.

In summary, Stennis told the Engineers, "You have had your days of grace. Time has run out now and it is time to do business with the landowner. I now urge the Engineers to make an extraordinary effort to come to a settlement with landowners and move this program ahead with greater speed and action."

It's very gratifying to note the co-operation of many of the local residents towards the immunization program to help stamp out one of America's major crippling diseases - POLIO.

We are one of the first coastal communities to undertake the administering of the new Sabin Oral Vaccine in such a large scale project.

Let's make our program A. O. K. all the way by seeing to it that every man, woman, and child in Hancock County consumes the three types of oral vaccine. It's tasteless and there are no after effects.

You might be a little apprehensive about the vaccine, but there is no real reason to be. It has been tested and passed by the National Drug Commission, with flying colors.

I happen to personally know a man, the father of six small children who gave against the first vaccine, given by means of an inoculation, because it contained dead elements of the polio germ, but on the other hand had real faith in smallpox vaccinations which is produced by the same process.

He realized his mistake a little too late. In the mid-1950's he contracted paralytic polio which turned out to be fatal.

Practically his last words to his loving wife were to have the children and herself vaccinated. He learned too late. I hope that's not going to be you?

Mrs. G. P. Stanton Jr. and Mrs. Winfield Partridge left Friday for St. Mary of the Woods, Indiana, to attend the graduation of Adele Townsend Stanton.

This will be a third generation graduating from St. Mary's.

Miss Sue Breath who came home Tuesday from the University of Southern Mississippi, will leave June 23 for Fryberg, Maryland, where she will remain for eight weeks as counselor at Camp Rappahannock.

Miss Katherine Morato of La. comes, La., is visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Doerflinger. Mr. Doerflinger, who recently underwent surgery in New Orleans, is recuperating nicely at his home.

Eugene Dillmann is a patient at Hancock General Hospital.

The information submitted to local board may result in a registrant being placed in either a deferred or an exempt class.

No deferment or exemption is permanent. These classifications are based on conditions which exist at any individual case. There are no group or class deferments or exemptions. No deferment or exemption may be assigned except on the basis of individual status.

Exemptions and deferments do not differ. Most deferments extend liability to age 35; exemptions do not. Exemptions are relatively permanent. Deferments are intended to be temporary. They are reviewed periodically and occupational deferments are limited to a maximum period of one year at a time.

Relatively few men without prior military service qualify for exemptions compared to the numbers who, for temporary periods, qualify for deferments.

As far as men without military service are concerned, the largest exempt group is made up of ministers of religion and theological students. Relatively small numbers are exempt as aliens or as sole surviving sons of families which have lost one or more sons and daughters in service.

On the other hand, deferments affect a great many men. Largest deferred group is that made up of service in the Armed Forces - I-V or I-Y registrants. Others may be deferred in Class II-A as fathers, or because their induction would result in extreme hardship to dependents; because they are engaged in study or occupations important to the national health, safety or interest (Class II-A, II-C, or II-S); because they are satisfactory members of a Reserve component including the National Guard, or are in ROTC (Class I-D).

Two types of student deferments are provided. Deferment in Class I-E is for full-time students who are making normal progress in their studies. However, with normal progress, a man may complete college before he reaches the age at which induction is imminent. But it is important to student status a sudden heavy mobilization could bring the draft age down into the college group. The deferment is also available to graduate students.

The other student deferment, designated Class I-S, is provided by law to permit a man to complete an academic year when he is ordered for induction during the school year. The deferment is available only once. It expires at the end of the academic year or when the student ceases to pursue a full-time course satisfactorily.

Occupational deferments are used, for example, to avoid aggravating the teacher shortage and to insure an adequate supply of scientific, engineering, and technical personnel in the defense effort or in activities vital to civilian society and the economy.

Fathers who are not physicians, dentists, or veterinarians are deferred for fatherhood by itself. Where other dependents are claimed, it must be demonstrated to the local board that extreme hardship to bona fide dependents will result from induction.

Relatively few qualified men pass their 26th birthday in a deferred or exempt status. And remember, a man deferred any time before age 26 remains liable to age 35.

(The next article will discuss conscientious objectors and stand-by Reservists.)

STENNIS ANNOUNCED APPROVAL OF FUNDS GULFPORT PROJECT

WASHINGTON, D. C. Senator John Stennis announced approval by the Senate Appropriations Committee of $35,000 for forest tree improvement research at the Forestry Genetics Laboratory at Gulfport.

Stennis, member of the Appropriations committee and a long-time champion of forest research for one of Mississippi's most important industries, said the money would be used to develop a special rust-resistant and insect-resistant southern pine tree.

"Approval of this appropriation," Stennis said, "is a major step in our forest research program and marks a move forward in an industry that adds a great deal to the State's economy and gives thousands of Mississippians a livelihood of continuing stability."

In another action, Stennis said the Appropriations Committee approved $104,000 for expansion and modernization of the Lyman Fish Hatchery at Lyman, Miss.

Stennis said the funds for the Lyman Hatchery would be used to build more ponds, a water supply and pumping unit, and drain lines for the Harrison County hatchery.

Stennis said about four million fish a year are supplied by the Lyman Fish Hatchery to 31 southern Mississippi counties and 16 parishes in southeastern Louisiana.

Stennis said Congressman W. M. Colmer of Pascagoula is cooperating in support of the Gulfport and Lyman projects.

IMPROVED HEATING UNIT DEvised FOR USE IN GREENHOUSE

STATE COLLEGE: Because heating is such an important factor in the production of greenhouse tomatoes, the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station has been seeking systems which would maintain the desired temperature, distribute it evenly, and not pollute the atmosphere in the house.

Horticulturist E. L. Moore and Agricultural Engineer T. N. Jones have devised such a system which completely eliminates all products of combustion from the plant growing areas. Plans are available on request.

They located a forced warm-air furnace in a plastic covered heating and air movement quarters of unique design and attached to one end of a greenhouse. The heating and air movement quarters was divided into two compartments. One contained the gas lines, pilot light, combustion chamber and vent stack. This compartment was separated from the radiating units of the furnace by plastic partitions. All gases that may have seeped from the lines and fumes that blew back down the stack were collected in the combustion compartment and eliminated through the vent stack.

The other compartment contained the radiating units of the furnace and the circulating fan. It was not partitioned from the greenhouse. Cool air was pulled from the greenhouse near the ground level, heated and then returned to the greenhouse through a hot air outlet 10 feet above ground level.

"Tomato yields have been excellent from plastic greenhouses that were properly heated, and where sound cultural practices were followed," Dr. Moore said. "Based on our experiments, two crops may be grown profitably each winter in the northern part of Mississippi. The first or fall crops have yielded about 2,400 pounds per 20x60 foot greenhouse and the second or winter crops about 2,700. Prices ranged from 25 to 35 cents per pound."

MAKE FIELD TRIP

Christ Episcopal Day School's First and Second Grade pupils went on a field trip today to Deer Ranch and also visited the Morris Farm in Pass Christian where they had lunch.

Accompanying the group were the Rev. Charles Johnson and Mesdames Warren Traub, Guy Parsons, Walter Russo, Jare Barclay and Harry J. Bowes.

On Friday the Fourth Grade will be entertained with lunch and a beach party at the Dr. George Byrne home in Pass Christian.

Kantcha Ketchum

The weather the past week has been perfect for fishing, both salt and fresh water. Green trout and perch are still being caught most everywhere and especially up Pearl River way. Some specks were caught in outside waters, but the water at Half Moon and Little Grassy Isle were a little on the muddy side. Salt water fishing should improve right along as shrimp are moving in rapidly. They are along the shore line both ways from the north end of the sea-wall to Bayou Caddy. A small seine will catch all the bait you can use. Using a floundering light and seine on the outside bars will produce best results. Most all fishing camps have live bait at this time. Saw some shrimp from Louisiana the other day that measured 5 to 6 inches. Looked like young lobsters.

Flounders are being caught out front and up Jordan River. Was quite a sight to see Bobby and Steve Carver up town Monday with Strat Pointdexter who killed a good size Armadillo on State Street. Armadillos are seen quite often out in the woods, but unusual to see them right in town.

Met two likable fellows in Hugh N. Briste and T. M. Johnson of Poplarville, Miss. They are with the State Highway Department at the weighing scales at Poplar

Down The Sports Trail

BY MICHEL LANG

Monday night with the usual doubleheader. Roland's Signs won the first game 8-5. Roland's got 8 runs on 14 hits with 3 errors.

Boo Noto and Jim Mayfield hit triples, Mayfield also hit his first home run of the season.

The Kiln Youth Center made 5 runs on 12 hits with 5 errors. Kiln several times left the inning with men on base but were unable to bring them in.

The second game of the night was between Trapani's and Krankey's. Trapani's took the game 17-2. Trapani's ruled the game getting 17 runs on 18 hits and having only 3 errors. Krankey's made 2 runs on 7 hits and had 8 errors. Trapani's set the pace in the first inning 11-0 and went on for more. Though nothing can be told by these first two games as to how the teams will wind up the season but you can be sure that the defeated ones will be out there all the harder the next time for that win. The man to watch on Krankey's is Harvey Mitchell.

On the Track side of things "Boards" Rutherford had to quit jumping high hurdles till he gets his foot out of the cast. He leaped when he should have looked. Take care of that foot, "Boards".

Now that warm weather is with us to stay, fishing and other water sports should be in full swing. Many enjoyed fishing over the weekend along Jackson Ridge.

Sting-rays have been spotted but not too many have been careful when going soft crabbing and floundering.

Friday night's softball game should have plenty of action. The first game will be between Roland's Signs and Krankey's, and the second, Trapani's and Indus-trial. Games start at 8 p. m. so get out there early.
